Summary

I'm a versatile FullStack Developer and Software Engineering student at WeThinkCode_, dedicated to building impactful digital solutions and staying on the cutting edge of technology. Recently, I dove into cloud computing, completing foundational AWS courses covering networking, security, and advanced cloud services. This training complements my expertise in Python, Java, and database management, giving me a solid foundation in both software engineering and cloud environments.

One of my proudest projects is ClubConnect—a website I co-developed to foster community at WeThinkCode_. The platform connects students through clubs and events, complete with multimedia features, testimonials, and interactive components, showcasing my skills in front-end development, user experience design, and collaborative teamwork.
